

Magenta Crabapple

The Magenta Crabapple is an attractive compact tree, reaching heights of up to 30 to 40 feet and has ascending reddish- brown branches and a symmetrical pyramidal or rounded crown. ... 'Magenta' is a member of the Roseybloom race of crabapples that were derived from the Redvein crabapple (Malus pumila v. This crabapple tree adds beautiful color to your landscape in late spring or early summer and is an attraction for bees and various other pollinators. The fruit is edible for birds and other critters.